Occupational exposures to irradiation in manufacturing industries of Bulgaria: A critical review.

This article reviews the published data on the number of persons at risk from occupational exposures to ionizing radiation in the manufacturing industry of Bulgaria. Between 1997 and 2000, the registered number of persons exposed to ionizing radiation in Bulgaria was 8549, of whom 845 were employed in the manufacturing sector. This sector is considered to be the most important contributor of ionizing radiation to the population, due to their average radiation dose per worker of 0.15-0.45 mSv/year. The majority of the exposed workers are employed in the nuclear industry, whereas those working in other sectors receive lower doses. Radiation exposure at the workplaces of the nuclear industry is due to the employment of nuclear facilities and the use of radioactive materials. The increased number of persons at risk from radiation exposure in the nuclear industry in recent years indicates that the industry is far from achieving the regulatory limits for occupational exposure to ionizing radiation.
