Are you looking for a simple and effective PCB software that can help you design, simulate and produce PCB boards easily and quickly? Well, AutoTRAX Design Express is the right software for you. This is because it comes with a compact set of tools that help you create your own PCB designs in two ways. The PCB designer tool makes use of the hierarchical design that you create in your design sheets, and populate it with components. Routing the board can also be done in two different ways, either automatically or manually. What's more, you can use an in-place approach that lets you preview your PCB design before outputting it to a PCB board and can export it to a standard XML document, which can be processed with other software. Besides this, it is possible to create your own designs in AutoTRAX Design Express by using the Part Creator tool. This provides you with a way to create an object for your schematic and can assign it any number of properties. You don't need to bother about poor quality or missing components. Additionally, it is possible to use help files and ready-made components. The help system comes with various topics about the product and other relevant information.
